NETGUARDIANS APPOINTS PAOLO BUZZI TO BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Yverdon-les-Bains, Switzerland, June 25, 2019: Award-winning Swiss FinTech NetGuardians has appointed to its board Paolo Buzzi, co-founder of Swissquote, Switzerland's leading provider of online financial and trading services. Paolo will be joining the board as an independent director.

NetGuardians provides real-time fraud and cyber-risk mitigation software to financial institutions. Its software uses machine learning and artificial intelligence to spot new types of fraud while minimizing the number of false alerts, increasing fraud detection and providing an improved customer experience.

Joël Winteregg, CEO and co-founder of NetGuardians, says: "We are delighted Paolo is joining our board and know he will make a substantial contribution. As co-founder and chief technical officer of Swissquote he was instrumental in growing it from a company that originally specialized in financial software and web applications into Switzerland's leading provider of online financial and trading services."

Swissquote is listed on the SIX Swiss exchange.

Besides his roles at Swissquote, Buzzi is also chief technical officer of Swissquote Bank and a member of the strategic advisory board at the Ecole polytechnique fédérale de Lausanne (EPFL). Before founding Swissquote, he worked in the Silicon Valley as a software and new technology integration engineer at Rolm Systems.

Raffael Maio, chief operating officer and co-founder of NetGuardians, says: "Paolo is a visionary who started his own company with his partner almost straight out of university. His business model is very impressive and we are pleased to welcome such a well-qualified individual on to our board."
